Queen Anne School is a special place. What makes it special is that it is such a small school. Its size demands involvement from nearly every individual who is a part of it. So we, the Senior class, wish to dedicate this book to the one who makes Queen Anne School so distinctive:

YOU!

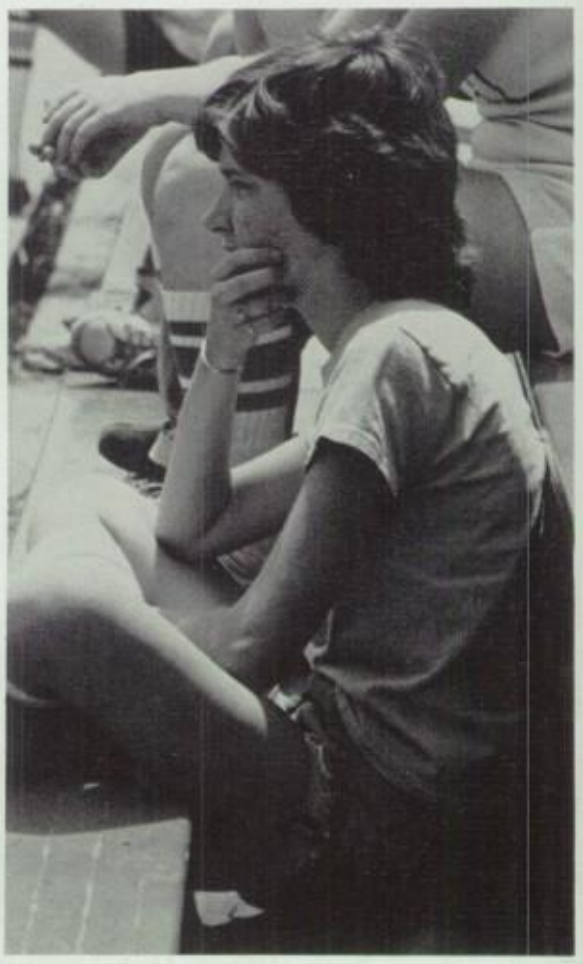
Change. It is inevitable and necessary. It is needed in order to revitalize and renew. At times it occurs subtly without attracting attention. It is evident within the lives of everyone.

All people need to realize it in their own surroundings. Both the quite apparent physical changes and the subtle intangible changes need to be acknowledged.

Those changes which affect our lives here at Queen Anne vary from visible changes in faculty and facilities to the subtle changes one goes through during the course of one's years at QA.

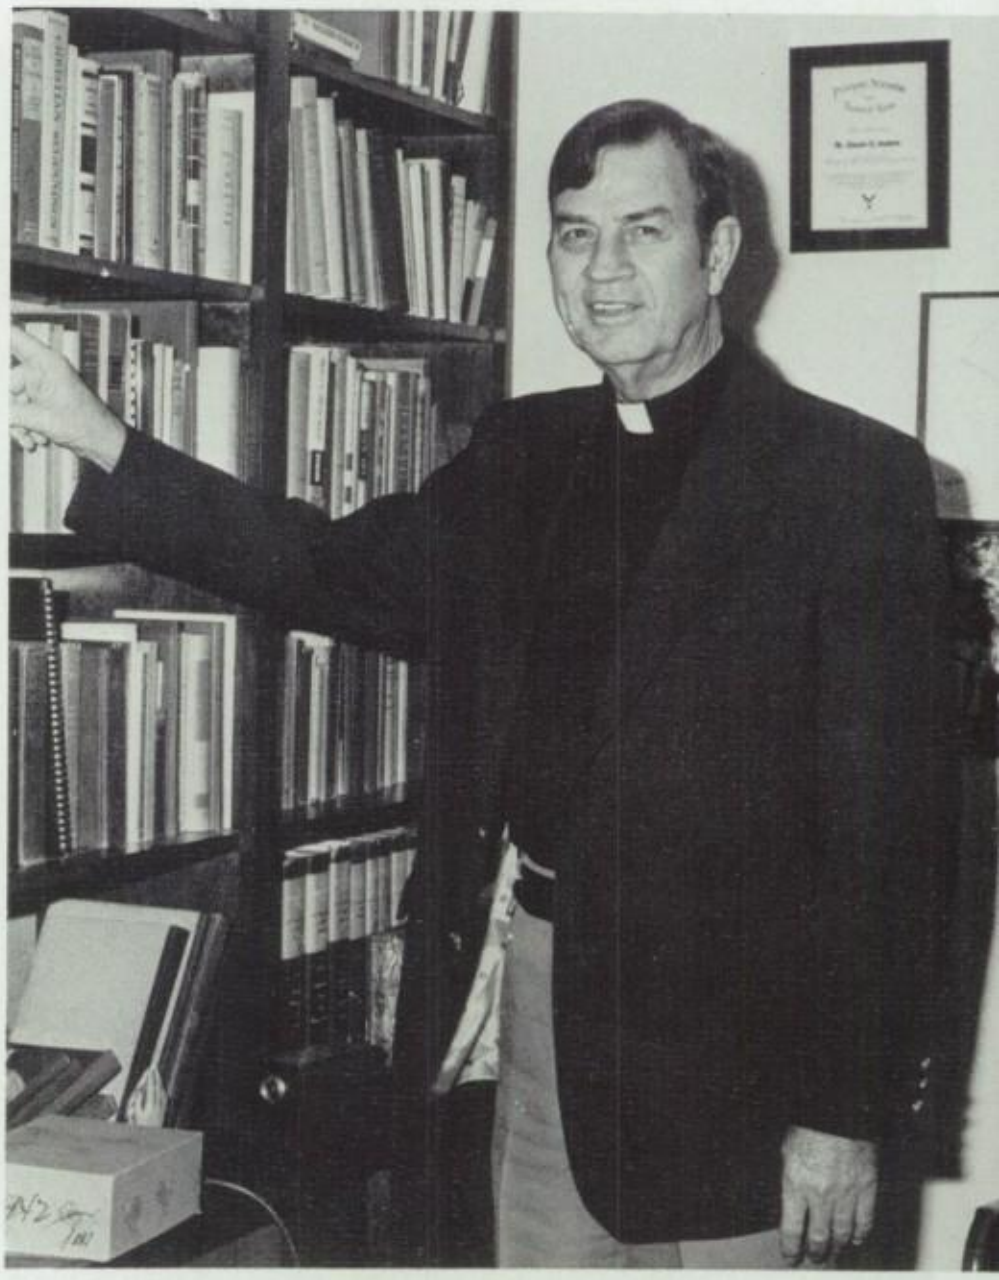


Top to Bottom: Valerie Stevens and Mickey Merton; Laura Maurer and Ellen Bartlett; Karen Shaver; and the Sophomore Class.

Top to bottom: Dana Holmes, Michelle Cross, Donna Natalie, Jane Downing, and the Senior class of 1981.

The symbol of a triangle represents the fourth letter of the Greek alphabet, Delta. In mathematics this symbol of a triangle denotes "change in." Therefore the use of the graphic triangle will symbolize "change".

Administration



This year the administration in charge of the daily operation at our school is composed of three people: Dr. Claude Guthrie, Mr. Thomas Farin, and Mr. Thomas Green. The official title of Dean of Students was created in the 1979-80 academic year. Mr. Green fulfills the obligations of this office by helping to keep order throughout the campus and enforcing the dress code. The addition of Mr. Green has improved Queen Anne's discipline. Mr. Farin, Assistant Headmaster, aids Dr. Guthrie in the great task of running our school from curriculum and campus development plans to improving faculty, student, and parent relations. Queen Anne School is fortunate to have such leadership. This autumn Dr. Guthrie announced that this will be his final academic year as he plans to return to the South for his retirement. Queen Anne will miss the stature and experience he brought to this administration.

FACULTY

English

The English Department includes Mrs. Gorski, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Knowles, Mr. Weller, Mrs. Firebaugh, and Mrs. Colaresi. In the capable hands of Mrs. Gorski, this department has improved, not only students' reading skills and term papers but also their journalistic and literary efforts. Mr. Weller's supervision of the Spectrum has brought it a long way. This newspaper is informative and interesting, while giving the Queen Anne community a chance to speak out about what is on their minds. The Parrot Weed is a collection of Queen Anne students' writing in poetry and prose. It includes submissions from all grades. Mrs. Colaresi's Coeur de Lion staff sees to the recording of the year in photographs and copy. This year is the first that a classroom course has been added to the English curriculum for yearbook editors. These efforts by the faculty led by the English department keep the writing of our school "up to par."

Fine Arts

The Fine Arts Department has made itself well known through the efforts of its creative teachers: Mrs. Masters, the chairman; Mr. Weller; Mrs. Morgan; Mrs. Souder; and Mrs. Colaresi. From this department come such noble efforts as Creepy Castle, a type of experimental theatre; Benjamin Britten's Noyes Fludde; The Littlest Angel; "A Night in Old Vienna" with the D.C. Youth Orchestra; and Queen Anne choral programs. The bands present concerts at various times throughout the year for the student body, parents, and they have taken productions in conjunction with theatre and art students to the public school systems of Prince Georges County. Art students, through many media from stage settings, to stained glass and graphic arts, have added many facets to the expression of ideas at Queen Anne. The Fine Arts Department has helped to add spirit and recognition to Queen Anne.

Foreign Language

The Foreign Language Department of Queen Anne School offers French, Latin, and Spanish. The head of this department is Nadine Sielecki who teaches French and has brought fame to the school with students who rank high in national French contests. James Turk oversees the Spanish curriculum at Queen Anne and the program this year was broadened to include more field trips than in the past. Miranda Knowles replaces her mother, Martha Beall, as the instructor of Latin students on campus. With the wealth of experience these teachers bring to students in this department, it is understandable why Queen Anne students are gaining an understanding of the structure as well as the conversational idioms of a foreign language.

Mathematics

The Mathematics Department numbers Mr. Green, Mrs. Sansing, and Mrs. Harris. The latest addition to the math department is a one term course dealing with computer math. The computer in the math department is a help to the students in making them well rounded in the mathematical sense. One could say that the changes in the math department add up to a stronger system of teaching.

Physical Education

As always, seventh through tenth graders are going through the gym class routine. The teachers, Mr. Brown and Miss Krahling, lead their eager, uniformed participants through many games and adventures. These include football, soccer, running, and basketball for all. In addition to the regular program of activities, boys lift weights and wrestle. Girls play volleyball, field hockey, and one of the new activities for them is archery. What a shame for those students who bring notes from home asking that they not participate!

Religion

The religious affairs of the school are still quite capably cared for by Father Chrisner and Father Harris. Knowing that one can go for help and advice to someone who is approachable and sympathetic to one's needs certainly makes for good spirit and a pleasant atmosphere for the school. Services are conducted in a manner acceptable to all. Because of the amicable approach of the religion department students are encouraged to write and participate in many of the services. Encompassing Queen Anne faculty and students in the heart of their program may be the reason that the religion department remains quite strong under the spiritual guidance of Father Chrisner and Father Harris.

Science

The Science Department this year has a new science teacher, Mr. Murray Carney, who is instructing the lower school courses. Mr. Green is currently teaching physics. Mr. Gorski is still heading the department and seeing that the old Bunsen Burners are kept hot by the chemistry groups and the biology classes are keeping their "parts" straight. Mr. Oravis is keeping it all balanced in the chemistry room. Science Fair entries each year prove the complexity and depth of this department. Watch out, Nobel Prize, here come the Queen Anne science students.

Social Studies

The Social Studies Department is being molded into a new shape by Mr. Peter Miller, current chairman of the department. He teaches ancient civilizations to ninth graders and United States history to Seniors. Mr. Miller is supported by Mr. Johnson who teaches seventh grade geography, eighth grade cultures, and tenth grade modern civilizations. Mr. Johnson is also seen on campus as the sponsor of the String Band and unofficial tutor to many musically minded students, as he is a professional fiddler.

The leaves of absence of Mr. Al Van Thournout to teach in Louisiana and Mr. Frank Kennison to complete his book leaves Queen Anne with memories of their reflections about history. Mr. Miller and Mr. Johnson's current department provide an opportunity to guage differences in personality and approaches to history just as the 1980 election does.

Above: Craig Johnson and Peter Miller. Right: Peter Miller, as the current chairman of the Social Studies department, uses the blackboard to make a point more clearly to the economics class.

Typing

Approach the typing room and what do you hear? The sounds of many keys being punched by eager young typists. Come closer and you see Mrs. Clark explaining how to use a typewriter. Patiently, she goes through the alphabet, numbers, symbols, exercises in how to set tabs and margins, and everything else needed to type papers correctly. All this she does with good humor. Thanks to Mrs. Clark's approach, learning to type can be fun.

Kay Clark

Guidance

One of the most valuable changes from last year is a full time guidance counselor. Our new counselor is Mrs. Andrea Parham. With the aid of Mrs. Parham it is considerably easier to get questions answered and to obtain the necessary information for college preparation. Many college-related activities have been planned for the year. These activities include grades nine through twelve. Speakers from many colleges come to talk to interested students. Also, there are college "nights" and college "fairs" to help make the students aware of the possibilities for finding the right college to meet their individual needs.

It is helpful to know that one can get a question answered satisfactorily at any time, and get a smile along with it.

Andrea Parham

Staff

From your first contact with the school, either by a visit or over the telephone, you meet the office staff. They work at keeping everything moving smoothly. Mrs. Chrisner does double duty as the receptionist and as the school nurse. Mrs. Shaver is the secretary to Dr. Guthrie. Mrs. Riggleman works as the secretary to the business manager. Mrs. Mencer doubles as a bus driver and manager of the bookstore. Mrs. Fisher serves as secretary to Mr. Pritchett, development officer.

Mr. Edinger, our business manager, is responsible for handling the business affairs of the school. He orders the necessary supplies for the school and makes sure that all of the bills are paid. Mr. Pritchett, the development officer, applies to various foundations which grant money to deserving organizations.

The library staff is composed of Mrs. Post and Mrs. Grigsby. Together they ensure that the library is a quiet place to study. Because of their efforts, the library has become better equipped with audiovisual equipment which the teachers find very useful in their classrooms.

Staff

Maintenance personnel, cafeteria manager, and bus drivers are a necessary part of any school's operation. Queen Anne's staff functions like a well-made clock. The daily rounds of the maintenance crews indoors and outdoors on Queen Anne's extensive campus help to keep it beautiful. From Monday through Friday, and for special functions in the evening and on weekends too, the cafeteria manager, Betty Pounsberry, runs the kitchen and prepares the food we all "love." A.M. and P.M. the bus drivers safely deliver unruly students on their long routes.

To the class of 81,

Through our experiences we have learned how very precious time is. Most of our days have been filled with happiness and laughter and because of our togetherness we have also been able to cope in times of despair. Unfortunately we must part but nothing can take away our memories.

Thanks for everything.
Love, Jenny

Laughter is not at all a bad beginning for a friendship, and it is by far the best ending for one.

You took me to the mountains. You took me to the beach.

Then there was the time in winter when I struggled beyond your reach. I didn't believe you when you told me one should fish from the shore. Thus, this two year old caught a cold.

You pointed to the mountains and showed me how to climb. Although my body could not provide the strength I needed, there were all those medicines, ice cream scoops and games of "I Spy." Somewhere between French lessons I learned to horseback ride.

I have come out of the Black Forest, floated down the Rhine, tripped upon my fears, cried a few tears, and laughed through crooked smiles.

Now I pause recalling words I once saw engraved in stone:

I bare you on eagles

you unto myself

Has nothing left to chance
With a host of holy horrors
To direct our aimless dance

A planet of playthings
We dance on the strings

'The stars aren't aligned —
Or the gods are malign'
Blame is better to give than receive

You can choose a ready guide

If you choose not to decide
You still have made a choice

You can choose from phantom fears
And kindness that can kill
I will choose a path that's clear
I will choose freewill"

"Each day in this life
In which we live in
We take one more stride
Into the sea
Stroking toward distant mountains
Mountains so hard to see
Stroking toward distant mountains
Mountains so far from me

But in the end, there are rewards
As you will find them
On the shore
But don't stop there
For within the mountains
There's so much more
Than what you found
Upon the shore

And as for the climbing
There is no stop
For your life is a mountain

"No one will ever get out of this world alive. Resolve, therefore, in the year to come to maintain a sense of values. Take care of yourself. Good health is everyone's major source of wealth.

Without it happiness is almost impossible. Resolve to be cheerful and helpful. People will repay you in kind. Avoid angry, abrasive persons. They are generally vengeful.

Avoid zealots. They are generally humorless. Resolve to listen more and talk less. No one ever learns anything by talking.

Be chary of giving advice. Wise men don't need it and fools don't heed it.

Resolve to be tender with the young, compassionate with the aged, sympathetic with the striving, and tolerant of the weak and the wrong.

Sometime in life you will have been all of these. Do not equate money with success. There are many successful money-makers who are miserable failures as human beings.

What counts most about success is how a man achieves it.

Resolve to love next year someone you didn't love this year.

Love is the most enriching ingredient of life."

One night I dreamed I was walking along the beach with the Lord. Many scenes from my life flashed across the sky. in each scene I noticed footprints in the sand. Sometimes there were two sets of footprints, other times only one.

This bothered me because I noted that during the low period of my life, when I was suffering from anguish, sorrow or defeat, I could only see one set of footprints, so I said to the Lord, "You promised me, Lord, that if I followed you, you would walk with me always. But I have noticed that during the most trying periods of my life, there has been only one set of footprints in the sand. Why, when I needed you most, have you not been there?"

The Lord replied, "The time when you have seen only one set of footprints, my child, is when I carried you."

Friendship is a quiet kind of love,
it doesn't need a lot of words,

just know when they are together

For those who want to live, there will be life
For those who want to party, there will be parties

To be or not to be
To live or not to live
To love or not to love
These ARE the questions

A friend in need is a friend indeed
A friend finished this one eve
To Life To Live . . .

He who bends himself to Joy,
Doth the winged life destroy,
But he who kisses the Joy as it flies,
Lives in Eternity's Sunrise

Life for me is like to live in a tree
To be so high in that you are never more
But when you fall you become one of us

Take time to work —
it is the price of success
Take time to think — it is the source of power
Take time to play —
It is the secret of perpetual youth
Take time to read —
it is the foundation of wisdom
Take time to be friendly —
it is the road to happiness
Take time to dream —
it is hitching your wagon to u star
Take time to love and be loved — it is the privilege of the Gods
Take time to look around — the day is too short to be selfish
Take time to laugh —
it is hitching your wagon to a star

Another year has gone by in our education at Queen Anne and we have become juniors. Many of us have known each other since seventh grade and, in some cases even longer. New people have come into our class and old ones have left, each one adding a "new twist" to our group. Remember: camping in Amish country, building igloos on the "tundra," Mr. Gorski: "Sit down and shut up!", another fund raiser, that wonderful song at the class dinner ("Stayin' Alive"), Old Brick pig pen, Shh. . ., V.T..: "God bless America"', King's Dominion again, "We love New York"', the

We feel that we are lucky to share our lives with each other, and we have so much fun with each other. When times are tough we unite and we help each other through. We are a happy bunch of people and togetherness is important to all of us. The class of '83 is a happy, caring, and united group and our main goal is to have fun while we are together.

Through the years we've been together with ones to whom we confide,
We searched for friends who looked like fun but we found the love inside.
We worked as a group to get through times that didn't always seem fair,
Those geometry tests and quizzes preceeded by Sansing's "Texas stare."
We learned a lot through experiences that some of us wish to forget,
For example, our first class dinner from which we are still in debt.
We tried our best to make the second dinner better than the first,
But somehow we misused our talents and made it one of the worst.
We went on living our lives by setting higher goals, and
We found our goals even higher when we were taught by Mrs. Knowles.
Remember Mr. Gorski trying to figure out our class,
He must have warned the others because they all just let us pass.
We're half way through our life at Q.A. with three years to go,
It seems each year we survive our feelings get easier to show.

Sue as "short and sassy," and Millie as "Neanderthal."

The love we found in all of our friends and the fun times that we had.

Seventh grade isn't easy, especially at Queen Anne. The standards are hard to reach. From our point of view "Them seniors have it made."

Basically we are two groups: those who came from the same school and those who did not; but joining a group is not hard at Q.A.S. Most of us, boys and girls have the same attitude when it come to English . . . "I'll flunk the test." Then, there are the brains who don't have to worry. Generally, we all have spirit, although it is hard to have as much fun as all the other classes. Seventh grade is tough, but we enjoy it!

Windsor Castle

A group of eighteen, including alumni, a parent, students, and faculty, who flew to London this summer are grateful to Mr. Robert Weller and Mrs. Barbara Masters for planning the exciting three week stay in the capital city of Great Britain. It is an experience that one never forgets; even the pictures that were taken by the rolls each day could not tell the story alone. With every historic place, statue, or person, there is at least one tale which adds to the atmosphere of London for each tourist. The present is as memorable as the past for its rare sights. On the road there are double-decker buses, three-wheeled cars, and punk rockers. Guarding the Palace and the Tower of London are beefeaters and guards on horses and on foot. London also is a city of theatre. The group took advantage of this by seeing such plays as "Pygmalion," "The Dresser," and "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead." Trips to Westminster Abbey, Stratford-upon-Avon, Windsor Castle, Hampton Court Palace and Canterbury added to the experience. Everyone on the trip saw London in his or her own way. Each had a favorite remembrance, but all agreed that once one discovered the magic of London one desired to return.

Blue Gold Field Day

The Fall Blue Gold Field Day took place Friday, October 10, with an abbreviated schedule. In such events as mass murder, centepede race, flag football, and the balloon relay, the blue and gold teams fought to gain points in order to win the coveted banner. The gold team was lead by Peter Mezzapelle, Kristin Myers, Sharon Beall, Johnny Graham, and Dana Jung while the blue captains were Craig Miller, Loretta Bland, David Sheppard, Paul Stackpole, and Cindy Hargrove

Spirit Week

This year's Spirit Week earned its title. As before, there were days to dress up. This year Wednesday, October 22nd, was hat day. The chapeaux styles ranged from cute to kocky, mild to wild, and junky to vogue. Thursday was fad day when togas, punk, and hippy costumes were a few fad garments to note. On Friday, blue/gold day, eveyone wore a blue and gold combination of their choice. Various contests accompanied Spirit Week. These included hall decorating, a shoulder sit, and a bug stuff. The seniors won the overall competition. These days pepped up the school enough to cheer the Lions at the coming event, the Homecoming Game.

Juniors show their spirit.

"Creeepy Castle"

Paul Summers practices for his part as Merlin the magician.

The "Creeepy Castle" was Q.A.'s first major production of the year. This extravaganza in experimental theatre was different from anything else done here because there was much more audience participation. As you can see, many weeks were spent planning, building, painting, and rehearsing for these four enjoyable evenings. The attractions on the outside were three Shakespearean witches, Merlin the Mad Magician, and some dancing gypsies who also told fortunes. On the inside of the castle many frightening and amusing acts thrilled entertainment seekers. The drama department with the help of parents sold tacos, subs, popcorn, candy apples, cider, cokes, and other treats to their guests. All in all they were fun filled evenings of magic and mystery.

Homecoming

Homecoming was an important sports and soical high light this year. Students started with a rousing pep rally led by the cheerleaders which peaked enthusiasm for the big game. The Varsity soccer team played Calverton and won with a close score of 1-0. Queen Anne's goal was scored by Robbie Fettus. The Junior Varsity, however, lost their game. During halftime the Pep Club brought their "Cage the Cougars" float on the field, while the band played the Queen Anne cheer. The next night a big dance celebrated the Queen Anne victory.

On Thursday, January 29, the second annual tricyle race was held at Queen Anne. During lunch the contestants were divided into four heats. In the final heat Brendan Flanagan sped to victory with Sharon Kozlowski coming in behind him.

Queen Anne choruses sang a medley from The Student Prince with piano accompanyment and "Out in the Fields" by William Dawson accompanied by the orchestra. The District of Columbia Youth Orchestra played several arrangements from musicals, such as Fiddler on the Roff, Camelot, and Oklahoma, as well as some Strauss waltzes to which four couples danced; later, the audience joined them in the dancing. Hot coffee with whipped crea, champagne, chocolate eclairs, strawberry bismarks, and sparkling punch were all on the delightful menu.

Sports

Lions at the Capital Center

January 19, 1981, found the Queen Anne Lions at the Capital Center. As the underdog team, they played against the number one team, Manassas Park's Cougars. The game possessed all the traits of the NCAA tournament games.

The first half showed the Lions in command with an eight point lead, only to be victimized by a Cougar comeback; Lions finished ahead by two. The second half showed the Cougars advance and take an eight point lead, but the Lions were not through. With nine seconds left, a foul was committed on a Lion. The Lions were down by one in a bonus situation. The ball released and the score tied. The second shot — the Lions were ahead by one. With six seconds left the Cougars called time. Ball at half court with three seconds left, the Lions picked up the ball handler, and, with two seconds left, the Cougar threw up a left-handed, thirty foot, off-balance jumpshot. The buzzer sounded as the ball went through the net.

This year's Varsity soccer team played in the more experienced B division because of the successful season Queen Anne had last year in the C division. Due to injuries early this season, the young Lion team did not start the season as well as expected. Co-captain David Sheppard sprained his ankle during the first game of the season. which caused him to miss much of the season. During the same game, sophomore Mark Chiaramonte suffered a broken leg, which, unfortunately, kept him out all season.

After the team's 7-0 win over Key School, halfway through the season, the revitalized Lions managed to play .500 ball for the rest of the season. Perhaps their most cherished win was the Homecoming game against Calverton; in which the Lions were able to hold on to a 1-0 lead over the desperate Cougars in front of a large and supportive home crowd.

The team's only league win came late in the season when they shut out Ascension, 4-0. This victory allowed the Lions to play in the tournament, which they lost to first place Gonzaga in a windy and fast-paced game.

Carol Bland: center halfback, co-captain

Priscilla Duvall: goalie

Queen Anne's Varsity Hockey team was loaded with veterans this past season; sixteen of a total of eighteen returned from the '79 season. It was because of this that the team worked well as a unit which had speed, endurance and good stickwork as definite advantages. Cindy Hargrove and Sharon Kozlowski dominated the offense with the majority of the goals between the two of them. The other players contributed a great deal of skill, spirit and character which inspired the team to strive for victory.

Junior Varsity Soccer

The Junior Varsity Soccer team had a record of five wins and one loss. The only game that they lost was during a rematch against Calverton at the Homecoming.

The leading scorer for the team was Kevin Dalzell; he was closely followed by Todd King.

The main reason for a successful season was the excellent goal tending by Geoff Fettus.

Probably the best game of the season was against Key, which they won five to one. Several different people scored and everyone enjoyed an exciting game. This season was one of the best that a junior varsity soccer team at Queen Anne has enjoyed.

Kevin Dalzell, leading scorer

Todd King, second leading scorer

Geoff Fettus, goalkeeper

Linda Smith: forward, leading scorer

Coach Cindy Hargrove and the team prepare to fight.

The Junior Varsity Hockey Team consisted of young and inexperienced players. At the beginning of the season, the team was weak, both offensively and defensively. As the season came to a close, the team began to understand the game, and thus began to work together as a unit. Says Coach Cindy Hargrove, "There is much potential for the future."

Kathy Shaver, Karen Leavy, and Gauri Nandedkar battle with Immaculata opponents.

As halftime comes to a close, Coach Cindy Hargrove picks up the spirit with a rousing cheer.

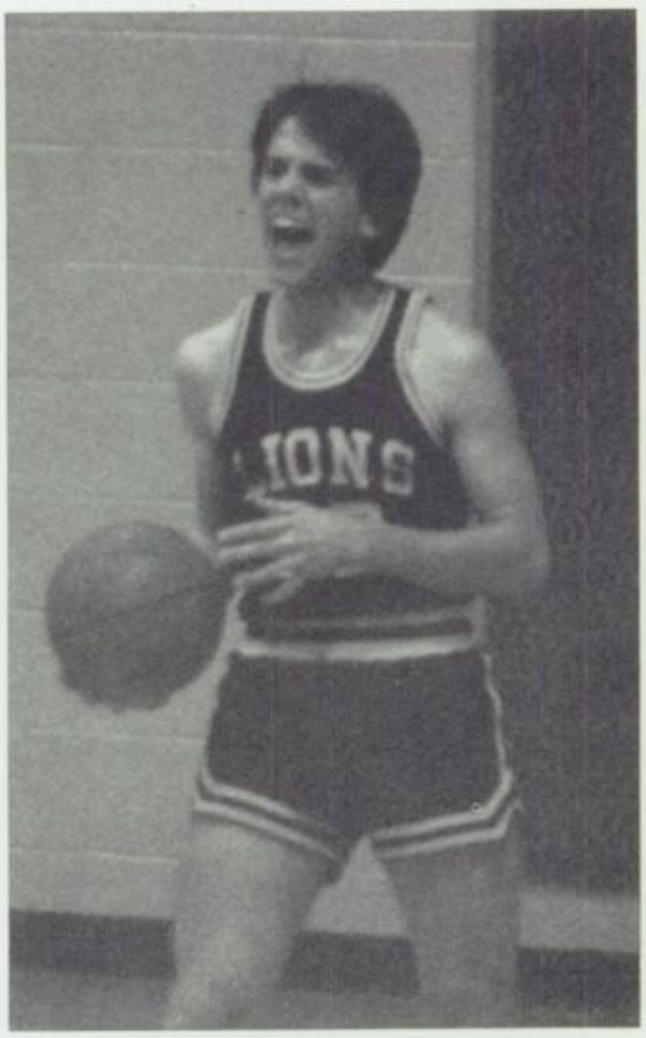
Queen Anne's Varsity Basketball team had some goals this season. The main one being to have a winning season. The Lions achieved this goal by the play of the entire team. Early season kinks were worked out and the Lions ended the season with a roar.

The five seniors: Mark Farnan, Paul Stackpole, Chris Besanko, John Graham, and David Sheppard were the backbone of the varsity team this season. Superb play from Mike McPherson and Mike Chiaramonte made Queen Anne tough underneath and always posed as a scoring threat.

Many dreams came true for the varsity team this year. Many memories will stay with the members of the team for a long while. Queen Anne's first winning season was this year's triumph and that is an accomplishment that will be hard to equal.



Paul Stackpole calls the play.

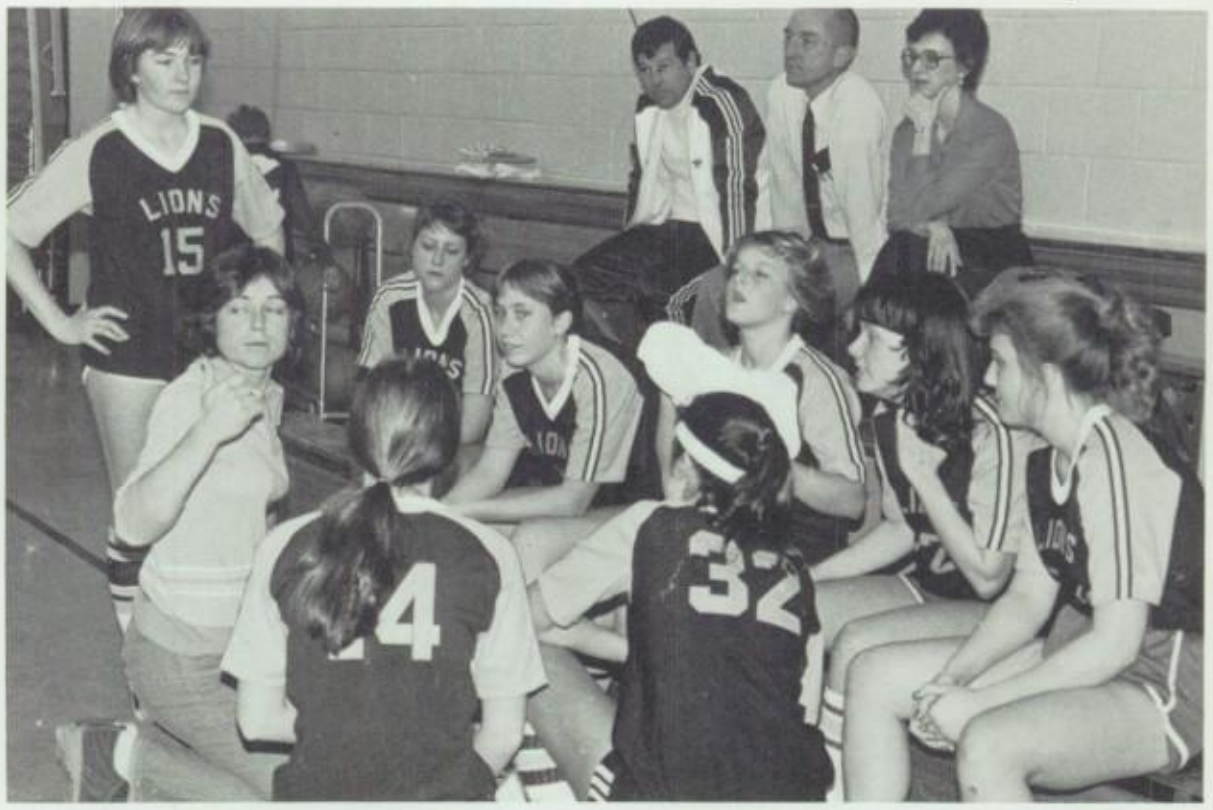
Jane Downing: co-captain, guard, a leading scorer



Coach Lynn Krahling explains both the offensive and the defensive tactics that, in the end, led the team to victory.

This year, the Girls' Varsity Basketball team played incredibly well as a team even as their season was not marked by numerous victories. Each player added her own well-developed skills which created a team greatly unified by spirit and character.

What the team lacked was height. However, good ball-handling skills, immense speed, and offensive plays built around these advantages dominated the game scenario. Each member of the team had a significant amount of experience which also added to the team's unity.

Boys' Junior Varsity Basketball

Queen Anne's Junior Varsity team expected a very positive season. The team was built mainly around three freshmen: Todd Roderiquez, Craig Miller, and Tom MacCallum. Mid-season problems cut down the team's size and Coach John Graham was forced to go with the younger players, many of whom were in their first year on the team. Bill Costello helped the team down the stretch with his hustling defense and sharp shooting. Watch these players in the next year or so, for many of them will be playing on the Varsity team and will help Q.A. stay competitive for years to come.

The humorous, last minute pointers

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team's nemesis was its lack of experience. Only four of the nine team members were returning players from the previous year. As the season progressed, however, the team began to work well as a unit. What the team lacked in experience, it made up for in courage to persevere.

"1 . . . 2 . . . 3 . . . Let's go!" A rousing cheer raises spirit and determination.

The starting lineup reviews its plays on a time out.

Varsity Cheerleading

Cheerleading . . . a word that has such a variety of meanings. We as Varsity Cheerleaders, would like to define it as "leading the crowd in cheer." Idealistically, this would be correct, yet in reality we have been forced to compromise. Cheerleading to us is as individual as any other sport or organization. Hard work, genuine spirit, and a bit of talent are the elements that have formed our squad into a competitive team.

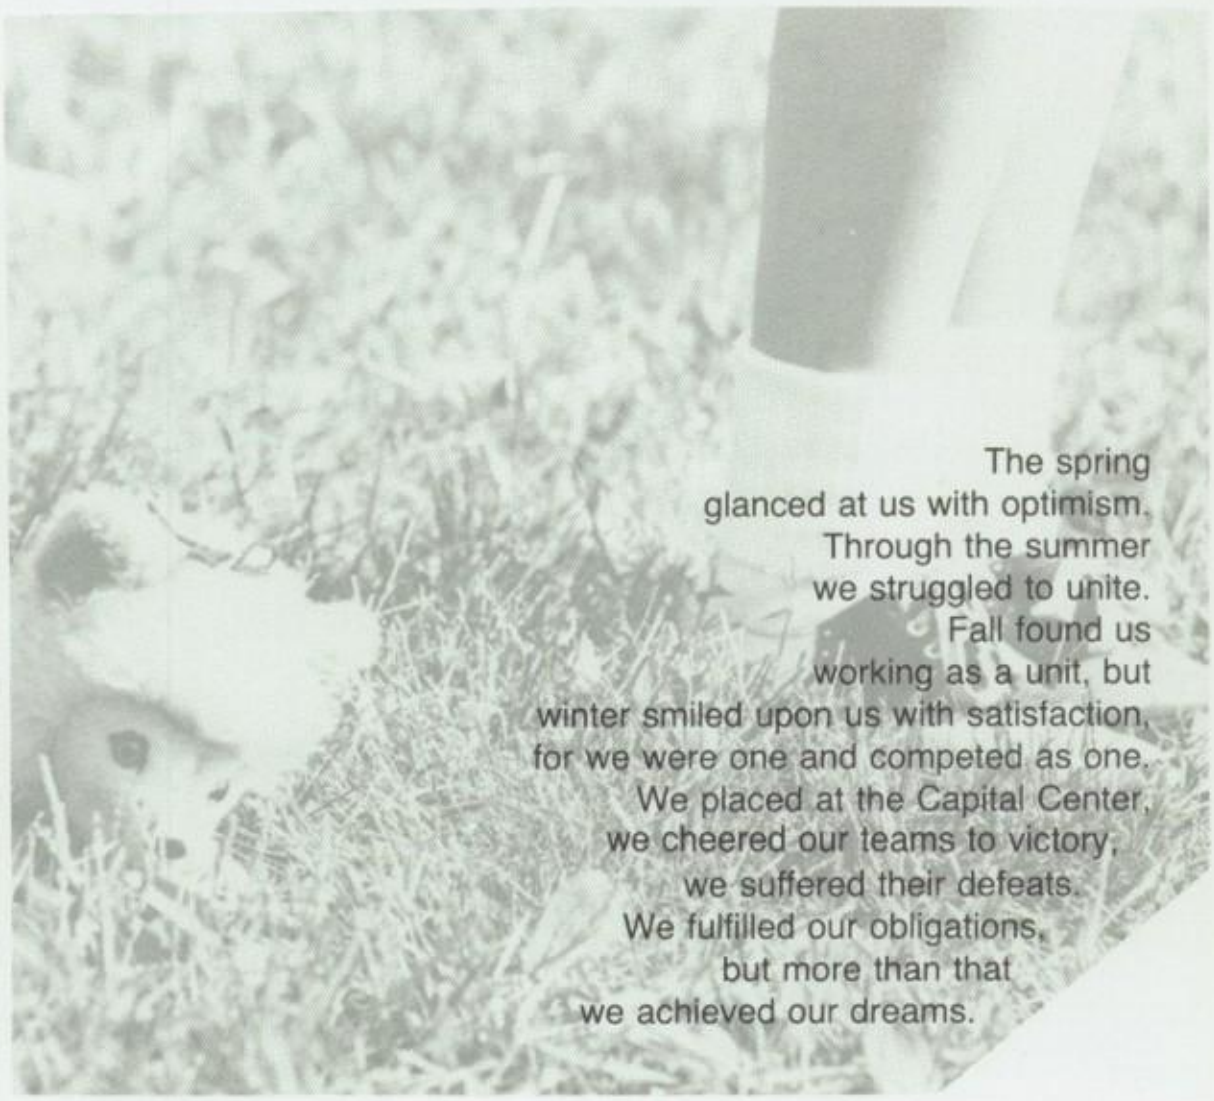
Co-captains



The spring
glanced at us with optimism.
Through the summer
we struggled to unite.
Fall found us working as a unit, but winter smiled upon us with satisfaction,
for we were one and competed as one.
We placed at the Capital Center,
we cheered our teams to victory,
we suffered their defeats.
We fulfilled our obligations, but more than that we achieved our dreams.

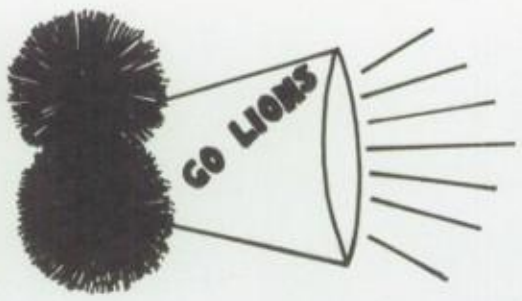
Cheerleaders



The 80-81 J.V. Cheerleaders started the year as a rough diamond newly mined. During the year they have realized capabilities. Through hard work and dedication, Hood College and Leeland Hall, they perfected themselves. To us these girls have become a most precious jewel.

Concert Band

The Concert Band has grown to an all time number of 47 members. Because of the band's large size, the Band room had to be moved from Old Brick Church Hall to the basement of Leeland Hall.

The Concert Band planned performances for the entire year including as follows: special assemblies, trips to other schools, and special Christmas and Spring concerts. Two new groups were formed from some of the older students. They are the Woodwind Quintet, and Brass Ensemble. The Concert Band can look forward to increasing size and improving quality.

Coeur de Lion

This year's Coeur de Lion staff attempted to take a departure from the traditional methods of putting QA's yearbook together. With several staff members having attended a convention in North Carolina to learn about design, technique, and photo journalism in general, the staff was well prepared to face all of the problems and decisions that putting a yearbook together can create. With the incredible patience and fortitude of the faculty advisor, Mrs. Colaresi, the staff made it through three hectic deadlines.

This year was one of many "firsts." Along with staff members having attended a convention, a yearbook course was offered and given for academic credit. This course included work on how to crop photos, how to decide on a good layout design, how to write good copy, and how to make a yearbook cohesive.

The staff was one of the largest QA has ever had. They worked together effectively enough to meet their deadlines on time.

Even though putting QA's Coeur de Lion together is a tough job, the staff pulled through and put out what they believe to be a first-rate yearbook.

Dance Committee

The Dance Committee has always been fun to work on. They're responsible for choosing bands, setting up before dances, taking money during the dance, and cleaning up afterwards. It's not always glamorous, but it's always fun because everyone works together, and makes every dance a memorable occasion. My thanks to all members of this year's Dance Committee. It's not just one single person who makes the dances successful, It's everyone working together.

Publicity Committee

The publicity Committee is new this year at Queen Anne and hopes to become a strong force in the communication at the school. Through various methods of advertising with posters and oral announcements, the members inform the student council and thus promote student involvement in campus activities. The committee is working toward self-sufficiency through the selling of spirit buttons. With this and other sales the publicity committee is enlarging its budget so that it may pay for other means of advertisement.

Golf Team

"The Golf Team Extraordinaire" is undoubtedly a strong "link" in our school's extra-curricular program.

The purpose of the "team" of six players is to have as great a time as possible in as short a time as possible. This goal is realized by playing some very prestigious and difficult courses where many 9's and 10's can be found on the cards.

Thus far the golf team has not required any challenge for positions.

Acolytes

The Acolyte Guild was established by Dr. Guthrie in the middle of the 1979-80 school year. Every Wednesday for the upper and lower school Chapel services the acolytes to the St. Barnabas Church to participate in communions, morning prayer or special services such as Ash Wednesday or Christmas.

In the Guild the acolytes are able to move up to different ranks by memorizing such parts of the worship service as the Apostles Creed and the morning prayer. The acolytes are truly an aid to Fr. Chrisner and Fr. Harris.

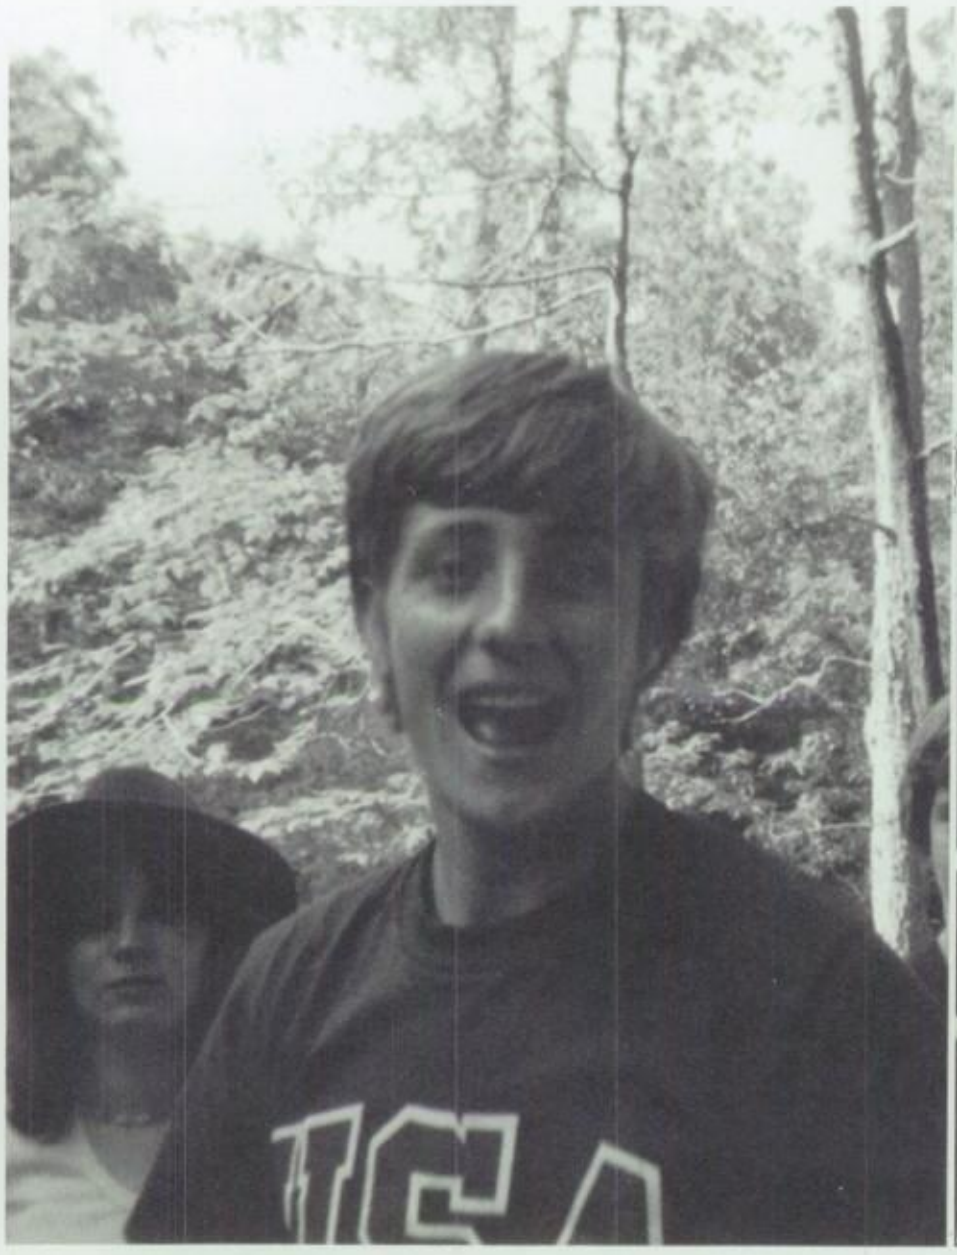
Foreign Exchange Students at Queen Anne



In January of 1980, Queen Anne met its first exchange student. Gonzalo Medina left Santiago, Chile, to live with the Zogran family. The Open Door Student Exchange made the arrangements for Gonzalo's stay in the United States. It took very little time for Gonzalo to adjust to the school. He was surprised at the atmosphere because he had been told that a high school was very structured and disciplined. After he had adjusted to the routines, Gonzalo joined in with enthusiasm. His English improved enough for him to use and understand our idioms. Gonzalo joined the Class of '81 on their ski trip to Seven Springs and soon showed off his impressive skiing skills and his ability to withstand cold weather.

Having a foreign student in class was difficult at first, but after everyone had a chance to meet and talk with Gonzalo, he was accepted as one of the gang. Several students have kept in touch with Gonzalo and report that he is well. Having had such a positive experience with Q.A.'s first exchange student, Queen Anne was looking forward to receiving their next, who was to arrive in January of 1981.

Queen Anne's second foreign exchange student was Denise Fresard. She came to the Washington area in January 1981. Denise stayed with the Payerles until the end of March.

Because of her excellent command of the English language, Denise had very little difficulty joining the Q.A. life. Her first involvement with the school was working on the Spectrum staff. She was also an active participant in the Senior activities. She is interested in cooking and hopes to become a nutritionist. Denise was kept busy during her stay touring the Washington area and discovering what typical American teenagers do in their free time.

Never to Forget . . .

The school year 1980-81 was one of rapid change in both Queen Anne School and the nation. These changes have been both physical and spiritual.

Here at Queen Anne, Dr. Guthrie announced, in the fall, his retirement after six years of loyal service to the school. The school has attepted to make itself less isolated by opening out to the community. The school has become involved in activities such as, producing a Benjamin Brittain opera in conjunction with the D.C. Youth Orchestra and numerous Washington area choruses and choirs, and having the drama department incorporate the theatrical facilities at the nearby Wildlife Preserve in Largo, Md.

Nationally, many significant changes have occurred. First of all, on November 4, 1980, the nation elected its fortieth President, Ronald Reagan. Along with the election of a more conservative Chief Executive, the nation elected a Senate which has a conservative majority for the first time since the Eisenhower administration.

On the day of Ronald Reagan's inauguration, January 20, 1981, the nation learned that the American hostages in Iran, who had been held for 444 days had finally been put on planes and sent home, to the United States. The word of their departure from Iranian airspace came soon after Ronald Reagan delivered his inaugural address. Even though the nation had been aware of the intention on the part of the Iranians to free the hostages, the nation was relieved, excited, and ecstatic that they were finally, actually on their way home.

This event certainly caused a tremendous amount of National spirit and enthusiasm. This was evident because of the multitude of yellow ribbons seen around the country once the hostages returned home.

The changes which occurred over the course of the last year were symbolic of those changes which must occur in every society to revitalize and stimulate.

Living Life to its fullest —
Taking advantage of every possible moment, and using every experience to help us grow into better people.

Knowing what makes you happy and striving for it. Going for it. We must go for it — for happiness is the heartbeat of life.

Diane is an example of one who lived life to its fullest. She made good things happen — not only for herself, but for those she came in contact with. Happiness and a flavor or zest of life were contageous with her presence.

May her life serve as an example for us all — may we all discover the secret Diane held for living a rich, fruitful life. She left behind many great memories, but there is one we all hold dearly — we have a smile in our hearts for her.

God bless you, Diane.

Laura Maurer

To lose a friend is the greatest of all evils, but endeavor rather to rejoice that you possessed than mourn the loss.

A friend is a special someone who is a part of you. Someone who cheers you up when you are down, someone you can share your feelings with, someone with whom you can be yourself and have fun, but most of all, someone whose laughing, smiling presence makes you feel a part of them. Diane was this special someone.

She was a very important part of our lives, her smile and a casual joke would brighten the dullest day. She was an example to us of how happy life could be if you lived it to the fullest. She loved life and life loved her, she had many friends and family who loved her.

Although we may wonder why God takes the ones we love, we must realize there is a reason, and accept it, then continue with life the way Diane would have wanted us to. There will always be a speical place in our hearts for Diane, and we will always have the memories of our times together.

In memory of a special friend, Diane Chiaramonte.

We've torn ourselves apart over you.

Ripped out our insides, in fact.
And created something new:
A pizza restaurant.
With lots of natural wood and stained glass and tiffany lamps.
With intimate tables for four.
And with the most bountiful salad bar you've ever seen.
Shakey's has been redecorated in the best of taste.
Come feast your eyes.
